Notes

HNW: HNW's November distribution of $0.1100 per share represents a 7.3% increase from $0.1025 paid in October. This change better aligns the Fund's distribution rates with its current and projected level of earnings and reserves.

HNW currently has a level distribution policy, which is intended to provide investors with a relatively stable monthly distribution. The level distribution policy is subject to regular review by the Board of Trustees to determine whether it continues to be in the best interests of the fund and its shareholders. There can be no assurance that this policy will be maintained in the future or maintained at its current level. Investors should not necessarily draw any conclusions about the fund's investment performance from the amount of this distribution or from the terms of the fund's level distribution policy. If the Fund estimates that any portion of a distribution may be comprised of amounts from sources other than net investment income, the Fund will provide shareholders a separate written notice. These notices are provided for informational purposes only, and should not be used for tax reporting purposes. The final determination of tax characteristics of the Fund's distributions will occur after the end of the year, at which time it will be reported to shareholders.

PHD: The payable date for PHD will be December 1, 2020.

ASSET MANAGEMENT

At this time, PHD believes a portion of its November distribution and a portion of its fiscal year-to-date cumulative distributions may be comprised of amounts from sources other than net investment income. A return of capital is not a distribution of income or capital gains from the Fund, does not necessarily reflect the Fund's investment performance, and should not be considered "yield" or "income." If the Fund estimates that any portion of a distribution may be comprised of amounts from sources other than net investment income, the Fund will provide shareholders a separate written notice. These notices are provided for informational purposes only, and should not be used for tax reporting purposes. The final determination of tax characteristics of the Fund's distributions will occur after the end of the year, at which time it will be reported to shareholders.

PHT: PHT's November per share distribution of $0.0725 represents a 7.4% increase from the $0.0675 per share distribution paid in October. This change better aligns the Fund's distribution rates with its current and projected level of earnings and reserves.

MAV: MAV's November distribution of $0.0525 per share represents a 16.7% increase from the $0.0450 per share paid in October. This change better aligns the Fund's distribution rate with its current and projected level of earnings and reserves.

MHI: MHI's November distribution of $0.0525 per share represents a 16.7% increase from the $0.0450 distribution paid in October. This change better aligns the Fund's distribution rate with its current and projected level of earnings and reserves.

The closing market price and NAV are based on data as of November 4, 2020. The Market Price Distribution Rate is calculated by dividing the latest declared monthly distribution per share (annualized) by the market price. The NAV Distribution Rate is calculated by dividing the latest declared monthly distribution per share (annualized) by the NAV per share.

The funds are closed-end investment companies. Four of these funds trade on the New York Stock Exchange (NYSE) under the following symbols: MHI, MAV, PHT, and PHD. HNW trades on the NYSEAMER.

Keep in mind, distribution rates are not guaranteed. A fund's distribution rate may be affected by numerous factors, including changes in actual or projected investment income, the level of undistributed net investment income, if any, and other factors. Shareholders should not draw any conclusions about a fund's investment performance based on a fund's current distributions. Closed-end funds, unlike open-end funds, are not continuously offered. Once issued, common shares of closed-end funds are bought and sold in the open market through a stock exchange and frequently trade at prices lower than their net asset value. Net Asset Value (NAV) is total assets less total liabilities divided by the number of common shares outstanding.
